Re: Testimonial

When I started my new company W hatever back in 2003 not only did I have little IT knowledge (other than email) I was clueless as to what my company's needs were.

Amit was there to give valuable advice and technical assistance even when the needs of my company grew and changed quicker than expected. Amit advised me on everything from our office, website, e-newsletters and IT solutions for all our needs. Whether it was my personal computer or the company's wireless network, whenever we had problems Amit and his team were always available to come and sort out our problems in the shortest possible time.

His commitment to his clients went beyond the call of duty of any IT company that I have dealt with in the past. We have never been let down, an important factor for any company heavily dependant in IT for it's survival!

I would highly recommend Amit to any other person or company. Thank you.
